

Christmas Presents!

In RE, 3B have been studying why presents are given at Christmas, and enjoyed some great discussion about what makes a good present, whether presents need to cost a lot of money and what they might like to receive that would not cost much. Here is a selection of 3B's thoughts:

A good present makes a person really happy but that does not mean people have to spend money. Christmas is not just about getting presents, it is about giving and spending time with your family.

Johnny, 3B

I think that spending time with your family is the best present because if you have not seen your family and you want to invite them then you can spend time with them.

Sophia, 3B

If you put a lot of love in your present it will be special and good.

Amber, 3B

A good present does not just mean toys and things. A present that I had was love, that just shows that a present can be faith and love.

Lily, 3B

I would like - spending some time with my family, spending some time with my friends, being kind, helpful and just being fine. A good present is that it's the thought that counts.

Sophie, 3B

A good present would be presents that people really think about, or things that people might need. Things like when we really do things all about Christmas. It doesn't all mean giving presents and cards.

Freya, 3B

For Christmas, I would really like a new sponge ball to kick about in the house and keep me busy. I would like more time with my daddy. I would like a sewn up monster to snuggle in bed and keep me company. The less money spent is a good and better present because you are saving someone's money and not wasting room.
